Strengthening Labour Inspection System in Pakistan PROJECT Project Launch and Tripartite Plus Consultation

What:

The Federal Ministry of Overseas Pakistanis and Human Resource Development (MOPHRD) in collaboration with the International Labour Organisation (ILO) in Pakistan cordially invite you to attend the inaugural session of Strengthening Labour Inspection System in Pakistan project's launching ceremony. The project will be followed by a one and half day consultation among Government, Worker and Employer Organizations as well as relevant stakeholders concerned with labour inspection in Pakistan.

The Labour Inspection project is a three year project financially supported by the Government of Netherlands. The project aims at strengthening the a) regulatory framework, b) institutional capacities and c) extending the outreach and quality of the labour inspection in Pakistan. The ILO considers it crucial that bringing together the social partners i.e. Workers, Employers, Government, academia, civil society could greatly foster stronger ownership, nurture broader consensus and mobilize effective collectivism around labour inspection in Pakistan. This tripartite consultation will provide a platform to a wider range of stakeholders for laying out strategies that could strengthen the labour inspection system in Pakistan.

When: 17 December, 2015
Where: Pearl Continental Hotel, Lahore
Time: 10:00 hrs to 1300 hrs

Background:

Pakistan is signatory to 36 ILO conventions including all eight fundamental conventions. Pakistan ratified Labour Inspection Convention 1947 (No. 81) in 1953. Ratification of this convention obliges the government of Pakistan to put-in-place an effective labour inspection system in order to guarantee compliance with and report on International Labour Standards (ILS).

Labour inspection is one of the core functions of any system of labour administration and a key element for enduring the implementation of labour policies, providing feedback and allowing for readjustment of these policies as necessary. The role of labour inspection is to secure the enforcement of a country’s labour laws dealing with such matters as conditions of work and the protection of workers’ health and safety. The importance of inspection is recognized internationally. International standards in this area include the Labour Inspection Convention No. 81, and its Recommendation as well as the Labour Inspection (Agriculture) Convention No. 129 and its Recommendation.

In Pakistan, at present, the capacity of the provincial labour departments to ensure achievement of labour standards is considerably limited due to, among others, i) complex and fragmented regulatory framework , ii) human and financial resource deficit and iii) limited professional capacities to carry out labour inspection efficiently. Also, the Ministry of Overseas Pakistani’s & Human Resource Development (OPHRD) at the Federal level, that has been recently established, faces enormous institutional challenges in centrally collating, analysing and reporting data on labour inspection. The interplay of these challenges continue restricting the compliance ability of the existing state owned apparatus in achieving the ILS. It is in this context that ILO has designed this project.
